Abstract

Techniques and systems for dynamically controlling polarization of an optical signal by using various feedback controls, and by combining both feed-forward and feedback controls. Various dynamic control algorithms for such systems and other optical systems have been disclosed.